Dear Mr Currie,

Thank you for your response.

It is most disappointing that the NELC will be withdrawing from our public engagements with our members as well as non-members.

Since the inception of our Inner Circle evenings in 2022, your predecessors have attended and engaged. A number did that knowing that they were getting direct sector insights that were simply not available or not offered elsewhere.

Notwithstanding your decision, ACA NSW extends to you a standing invitation to attend and engage in any of our public events and activities for the same reason your predecessors did.

Dear Mr Lim,

The Commission has assessed your request and determined that it is not in line with our engagement priorities.

The Commission already engages with the sector via online webinars that include question and answer sessions. We promote this across the sector, and it is open to all who wish to join regardless of any union, association or lobby group with which they are aligned.

I encourage your members to take advantage of these sessions as up to date information about the Commission's priorities and activities are included.

The Commission is always happy to consider hosting webinars on topics suggested by members of the sector. Any member of the Australian Childcare Alliance NSW is welcome to submit suggested topics for the Commission's consideration

I note that you are a member of ECAG and therefore you receive access to Commission presentations and question and answer sessions that you can report to your members.

As stated previously, if you wish to invite the Commission to an individual meeting to give a presentation to your members about our work, we will determine whether someone may be able to attend at the time requested.

In the future the Commission will be calling for expressions of interest from across the early learning sector for membership of the Commission's own advisory group. If you wish to deepen your knowledge of the Commission and its work your organisation may wish to apply for membership of this body.

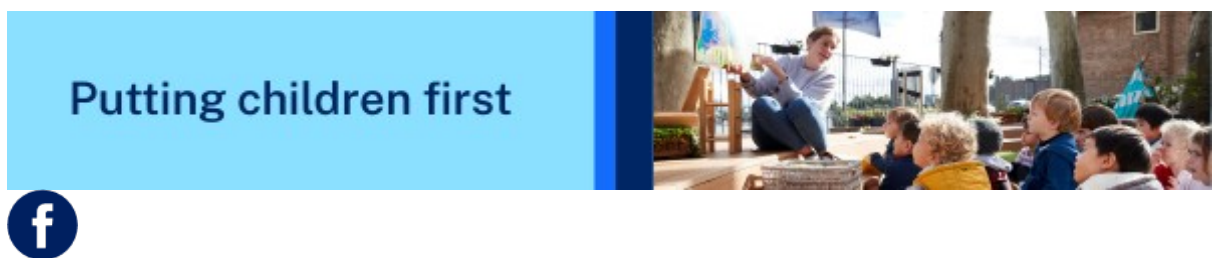

Regards

Daryl Currie (he/him)
